Dear Mr. Baldwin and Senator Birmingham

Re: Senator Birmingham's letter number MC14-19718

Congratulations Senator Birmingham on your appointment as Assistant Minister for Education and Training and Mr. Baldwin on your appointment as Parliamentary Secretary to the Minister for the Environment.

Thank you Senator Birmingham for your reply dated December 18, 2014 to my letter of August 24, 2014. Your reply was received by email on December 24, 2014 the day after your last day as parliamentary secretary to the Minister for the Environment. From your letter's penultimate paragraph I conclude that the Bureau of Meteorology (BOM) misled you. This reply clarifies with complete, comprehensive yet succinct detail and context to support and protect you and Mr. Baldwin.

This letter details BOM's misrepresentations, includes unique material from BOM and CSIRO, and summarises findings from seven years' independent investigation into environmental and climate politics for your consideration and use.

It explains damaging impacts of ALP-Greens legislation and policy on science, costs-of-living, dwindling after-tax incomes, hardships for homebuyers, and the erosion of our national constitution, sovereignty and rights. We are copying Europe's failed policies while attractive proven Australian solutions provided in this letter present our embattled federal government with immense opportunities you could apply to revitalise our economy and restore prosperity to secure our future.

A core question emerges – should the UN and any unelected foreign bodies continue to control Australian energy, resources, industry and employment; and should they decide unilaterally what is sustainable in our country; and should they grant, modify, or revoke human rights, OR, should these matters and the human rights of all Australians and the values and laws of our country be enshrined in, & protected by, the Australian constitution?

I believe this letter with its incorporated accompanying report provides logical answers to this question and I hope that it nurtures your interest and generates your support.

In 2011 and 2012 public rallies in our country's West, East, South, North and capital were energetically supported by Coalition MP's including Tony Abbott, Julie Bishop and Warren Truss, commercial radio, television, major newspapers and thousands of people. As a result of those rallies and the Internet the number of Australians aware of my core question is rapidly growing. Many thousands of Australians and people globally will be very interested in your reply and will watch your actions. I look forward to your reply to each of the opportunities raised in my report's last section.

I hope you share my passion for our precious natural environment, science, truth, our country and our common humanity shared with all people on our planet. This is an opportunity for us to demonstrate our integrity and our care. Imagine what we could do together for our indigenous, our genuinely disabled, our poor, our inventors, our creatives, our natural environment, our wealth producing farmers, fishers, miners and manufacturers and for our children and descendants. With Australian sovereignty and governance restored we can again abound for the benefit of humanity globally.

We will unlock our natural material resources by first unshackling Australia's most powerful resource, our people. Surely, we have an ethical duty to understand the facts, leading to a moral duty to share the facts, and a fiduciary duty to support the facts with honest words and actions. I offer my support for creating prosperity for developing nations and for Australians and would be very pleased to meet with you.
